1. The Examiner has carefully reviewed Applicant's Response of 9/15/05. At this time, the Examiner makes a new rejection which is accordingly not made final.

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

4. Claims 1-5, 7, 10-21, 25-27, 29, 32-34, 37 and 40-44 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Heinrich et al. in view of Fujita et al. '696 (Fujita et al.).

Heinrich et al. discloses the invention substantially as claimed. Heinrich et al. discloses at col. 2, lines 1-5, a cermet comprising:

Art Unit: 1742

a WC hard phase in an amount of 81-95%; and a Co-Ni-Fe binder phase in an amount of 5-19%.

Heinrich et al. further discloses at col. 2, lines 13-21, wherein the binder phase comprises about :

40-90% Co;

4-36% Ni; and

4-36% % Fe (see col. 4, lines 9-10).

However, Heinrich et al. is silent as to the addition of Mn and C, but teaches that additional alloying elements can be included in the binder (col. 3, lines 53).

Fujita et al. teaches in the same field of endeavor at col. 2, lines 40-43, to add Mn to binder metals including Fe, Co and Ni in order to improve the sinterability of the matrix.

It would have been obvious to add Mn as taught by Fujita et al. to the binder of Heinrich et al. as taught by Fujita et al. in order to improve the sinterability of the matrix. ∞

Fujita et al. further teaches in the same field of endeavor at col. 2, lines 7-29, to add C to the binder in order to improve the toughness of the binder.

It would have been obvious to add C to the binder of Heinrich et al. as taught by Fujita et al. in order to improve the toughness of the binder.

Heinrich et al. thus discloses constituent amounts which overlap those as claimed by Applicant which would inherently result in an coefficient of thermal expansion range which would overlap that as claimed by Applicant, establishing a prima facie case of obviousness. The Examiner asserts that where the claimed and prior art products are identical or substantially identical in structure or composition, or are produced by identical or substantially identical processes, a prima facie case of either anticipation or obviousness has been established. In re Best, 562 F.2d 1252, 1255, 195 USPQ 430, 433 (CCPA 1977). "When the PTO shows a sound basis for believing that the products of the applicant and the prior art are the same, the applicant has the burden of showing that they are not." In re Spada, 911 F.2d 705, 709, 15 USPQ2d 1655, 1658 (Fed. Cir. 1990).
